Environment and One Health

Tuesday 8 July 2025

18:30 – 20:30

Online

Talks include:

- The One Health implications of air pollution
- Pharmaceuticals in the environment - the pandemic lurking in our waterways
- Environmental change and vector-borne disease

This webinar will explore the impact of environmental factors and climate change on health. Our speakers will discuss air and water pollution, and their impact on health and the environment, as well as the growing impact of climate change on the global spread of disease.

All grades of medical, nursing, scientific staff, allied health professionals and medical students are welcome.

Registered delegates can view this event on catch-up for 28 days following the live event
