

First of all, I would like to thank the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh for sponsoring me to attend the 2026 McMaster International Review Conference of Internal Medicine (MIRCIM) in Krakow, Poland. It was a privilege to be afforded the opportunity to present my case report at such a prestigious conference.

The whole trip was a great experience. It started off with a guided tour of the world famous Wieliczka Salt Mines which is a must-see for anyone visiting Krakow. Day 1 of the conference focused on the Young Talents of Internal Medicine World Contest in which I was able to listen to and learn about various rare conditions from presenters across the world. Days 2 and 3 focused on leading experts in their field providing updates on a variety of topics such as cardiology, rheumatology, diabetology and endocrine in addition to sessions on respiratory medicine, gastroenterology and the use of AI in medicine.

Overall, I feel fortunate to have been provided with the opportunity to attend and present at MIRCIM and would strongly recommend the conference to anyone interested in the field of internal medicine.

Ryan Carroll