Quality Governance Collaborative

The Quality Governance Collaborative (QGC) is an independent, neutral, non-governmental body committed to a new approach to governance in health and social care.

We bring together multi-professional groups, developing national and international collaborations which aim to highlight issues and improve the practice of quality governance.

The Collaborative works closely with and advises, governments, medical royal colleges, board directors, NGOs and other healthcare professionals and individuals involved in the delivery of patient care.

The QGC undertakes a number of activities to improve governance systems, including our fellowship programme, research publications and policy positions, symposia discussions and direct governance support for health and social care organisations via audits and invited reviews.

The QGC's ambition is to shape UK and international quality governance practice, and ensure that health systems continue to deliver for patients.
