

Hypnale coagulopathy: snake envenomation of a different kind

Bolar Sadananda Naik<sup>1</sup>

Supplementary Figure 1 Hypnale hypnale showing double row of large dark spots on the body. Image courtesy of Mr Mohit Shenoy K, Mangalore, India

Acknowledgements

The author is indebted to Dr Chakrapani M, Professor of Medicine, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, Manipal University for editing the pre submission manuscript and his invaluable inputs and suggestions in improving the quality and contents of this paper. The author would also like to acknowledge the help of Dr Ravindranath Aithal, eminent herpetologist, Puttur, Karnataka, and Dr M Mohan Alva , Chairman, Alvas Education Foundation, Moodabidri, for their inputs to regional nomenclature of the H. hypnale. A special thanks to my dear friend Dr Krishna Mohan Prabhu, General Surgeon, Moodabidri, for helping me out in the typesetting of this manuscript and literature search. The author also acknowledges the help of Mr Manish KS, Research fellow, Manipal School of Life Sciences, Manipal, in preparing the figure presented in the manuscript. Last but not the least, the author is grateful to Prof JJ Pinto, Principal S.N.M. Polytechnic College, Moodabidri, for overseeing the language and proof reading of the manuscript. The author is indebted to Mr Mohit Shenoy K, Mangalore, India, for permitting the use of his H. hypnale photographs in this publication.

<sup>1</sup>Senior Physician, Alva's Health Centre, Moodabidri, India