

Myre Sim Bequest Committee

Grants to Fellows and Collegiate members between February 1997 and November 1997:

Dr I D Penman, Edinburgh, for endoscopy research with Professor P Cotton, Charleston, South Carolina, USA.

Dr G D Morrison, Plymouth, to attend the clinical practice of Professor Marinoff and be a member of a working party on vulvodynia, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Maryland, USA.

Dr E McRorie, Edinburgh, for research at the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases, Bethesda, Maryland, USA.

Dr A D Smith, Glasgow, for research on dermatitis herpetiformis and the mucosal immune response at Duke University, North Carolina, USA.

Dr K Horn, Edinburgh, for research on HIV and skin disease in San Francisco, USA.

Dr R P Smith, Bristol, for research on upper airway resistance in Grenoble, France.

The following have received student bursaries between February 1997 and November 1997:

Sacha Rajack to study sickle cell disease and anaesthesia in Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Megan Smith to study the factors influencing survival following recurrence of breast cancer at Boulder, Colorado, USA.

Colin Speight to pursue a project in Nicaragua.

Simon Calvert to compare the management of acute medical emergencies in two clinical settings - Madhya Pradesh, India and Sydney, Australia.

Lisa Clampitt to study rural health care needs in Guatemala.

Shabbir Moochhala to study the health care arrangements for local communities in Padhar, India and Brisbane, Australia.

* * *

CORRIGENDUM

On p. 69 of vol. 28 line 8 should read: In 1742 he designed a scale of 0° - 100°, with 0° being the boiling point of water and 100° being the freezing point; the following year the scale was reversed to its present form by Linnaeus, a Swedish physician and botanist, and Christian, a glass blower in Lyons.